MSU Fallout Shelters Pose Problems

By JANE TOTMAN
Kaimin Reporter

Finding a campus fallout shelter in the event of enemy attack might be an impossibility, according to a recent Kaimin survey.

Fallout shelter signs are posted on nine campus buildings, but few people seem to know exactly which rooms are the designated fallout shelters. Many of the rooms are locked and some of the entrances are in out-of-the-way locations.

The fallout shelter in the Law Building is a basement room kept locked at all times because the room is a storage room for law books. The law school is planning to extend the library into this fallout shelter, Rodney Houghton, assistant professor of law and law librarian, said.

The entrance to the fallout shelter is a door in the basement of the Law Building marked number two and a sign on the door reads, "This door is kept locked at all times." There is no indication that the room is a fallout shelter.

"I have not seen any preparations for food or water or medical supplies," Mr. Houghton said. "No one could find the shelter. Because the room is full of law books, it is kept locked all of the time. Only the maintenance men and I have keys."

Shelter Sign Unwanted

The Music Building, which was designated as a shelter, does not have a shelter sign any longer. A music student said he was glad the sign had been taken down. In the student's opinion, "The sign spoiled the beauty of the marble building."

The secretary in the Music Building office said she had no idea if there was a fallout shelter in the basement. Gerald Doty, associate professor of music, said he had never heard of any specific instructions or preparation for a fallout shelter in the basement of the building.

The exact location of the shelter in the Liberal Arts Building, where 500 students are supposed to be sheltered, caused some confusion.

The telephone operators and the men in the computer center thought the shelter might be in the computer center, but the windows would have to be covered with sandbags.

An anthropology professor said the lecture hall numbered 11 might be the shelter, but again the windows would have to be sandbagged.

Gertrude Chamberlain, director of the food service, said she was not sure whether the SUB basement or the College Inn had been designated as the Lodge fallout shelter. She did not know of any instructions or plans for the shelter which is to hold 70 students.

When these fallout shelters were designated, apparently few people in the buildings were told or consulted. Few people in charge of the buildings or occupying offices in the buildings know where the shelters are. It was difficult to locate people who have been trained to operate the radiation-detection equipment which is supposed to be in each shelter.

Designated by Army

The army corps of engineers from Helena surveyed all campus buildings in Missoula last spring and designated those buildings which would give sufficient protection against radiation, John Steele, county Civil Defense director said.

Shelters are located in the following buildings: Pharmacy, Music, Liberal Arts, Library, Fine Arts, Women's Center, Turner Hall and the Lodge. Since last spring, shelters in the Law Building and Knowles Hall have been added.

"Food supplies and radiation detection equipment will be provided by the federal government," Mr. Steele said in the May 3, 1963, edition of the Kaimin.

How long will students have to wait until these fallout shelters are made operative?

Mr. Steele said he had ordered food and radiological equipment for five campus shelters and the equipment for the other four shelters is "sitting in a depot in Spokane. I could get the supplies in a week or 10 days if the University wanted," he said.

Shelters Empty

Ten months have passed since the signs were placed on the fallout shelters and only enough food for five of the shelters is available. At present there is nothing inside the shelters.

"The food is stored in the warehouse," T. G. Swearingen, director of planning and construction, said. "The food has not been distributed to the shelters because we have no way to keep the supplies from being stolen."

Mr. Swearingen believes that cupboards should be built so that the food supplies will be kept locked. He is asking money from the legislature to build the cupboards.

"The Civil Defense people want three fallout managers appointed for each shelter and they want someone in each shelter to be trained to operate the radiation-detection equipment," he said. "But, nothing has been done yet."

The shelters can only accommodate about 1,500 students and there is no definite plan to protect the other two-thirds of the students. No arrangements have been made to specify who will get into the shelters and who will not.

Mr. Swearingen said: "The best facilities for fallout shelters will be the basement of Knowles Hall and the basement of the new men's dormitory which is still under construction. In these buildings the student could take their own supplies to the basement with relative ease."

"If the University is going to provide fallout shelters, then I think the money should be spent to properly equip the shelters. If the fallout shelters cannot be properly equipped in the very near future, then I think the signs should come down."

Mousavi Hearing Set for March 14

A preliminary hearing on a third degree arson charge against a former MSU student, Zeia Mousavi, was continued yesterday morning until March 14. Justice of the Peace Joe Young said the hearing had been postponed at the request of the county attorney's office.

Mousavi was arrested and arraigned in connection with a fire which destroyed a late model car belonging to Prof. James A. Leedy of the School of Fine Arts. Mousavi has been held under maximum security since his arrest.

Drama Workshop Hits Twice, Misses Once

By VICKY BURKART
Kaimin Drama Reviewer

The drama workshop presented three one-acts last night and dropped one out of the three. The one-acts will be presented again tomorrow and Saturday nights at 8:15 p.m. in the Masquer Theater. Graham Greene's The Living Room was the least enjoyable of the plays because it came too close to being an all-out soap opera. The plot centers around Rose, a young girl who has come to live with her two old maid aunts, and her uncle, a priest.

Living in a house which has been slowly closed off room by room, as the aunts have a fear of living in any room in which someone has died, the four people practically destroy one another. Rose is in love with a married man, and against the dictates of her church, she wants to go away with him. Her Aunt Helen puts on a crusade to keep the lovers separated.

The schemes of the righteous aunt end in disaster and grief for all.

Al Holt, as the priest, performed very well and seemed at ease with his part. Kathy Davies, as Rose, shone in her part of the tortured lover. Her facial expressions and feelings of grief came across in the small Masquer Theater. Barbara Lape, as the wife of the lover, threw a beautiful tantrum scene.

Unfortunately, The Living Room ended so tragically that a final line of "Tune in tomorrow at the same time to see what happens to Poor Pitiful Pearl," seems all too appropriate.

Captain Brassbound's Conversion, by George Bernard Shaw, is a real old-time melodrama — and twice as enjoyable.

The play begins with such a bang that the real essence of the plot is almost lost. The Captain, a pirate, has imprisoned an Englishman, the brother of the Captain's father. The Captain wants revenge for the wrongs done him and his mother by the two brothers.

Lady Cicely, played by Ruth Anne Emerson, added the guffaw touch of humor to the play. The English lady reduces the Captain to a cowering figure. Gary Anderson, as Captain Brassbound, was excellent in his part.

Today's Montana Forum meeting has been canceled because the planned speaker, Vic Overcash, state coordinator of the John Birch Society, was unable to come to Missoula.

Captain Brassbound's Conversion was the bright comic spot of the one-acts.

Jean Paul Sartre's No Exit stood out as the finest of the three plays. The acting in particular was the best.

No Exit deals with the punishment given three people who are put together in a single room in hell. The punishment is not physical; it is purely mental.

The terseness and agonizing tension of this play go well with the intimacy of the small theater. As the two women and one man scream at one another, the room is filled with a real taste of hell.

The three people can't figure out why they were put together, and in an effort to find the answer they all begin to confess their sins. Then the answer hits them—they were put together to be each other's torturers. They succeed.

Patsy Maxson, as Inez, was the best actress of the evening. playing her part with an enthusiasm that few actors can equal. Ben Holden, as Garcin, also seemed to live the torture so aptly given out by the two women. Jean Campbell, as Estelle, enlisted sympathy from the audience, and played her part with conviction. Kirby Siber, as the bell boy, mastered in facial expressions.

The conclusion of No Exit is in keeping with Sartre's style. As the man realized with horror, "Hell is other people."

Thanks, Rep. Olson

The brochure sports a picture of a beaming Arnold Olsen, U.S. representative from Montana's first district. The letter begins "Dear Friend," and further on down says, "The list on the reverse side contains the Department of Agriculture bulletins which are available to you. . . . These bulletins have been carefully prepared and cover a large number of subjects. From an examination of the list, I feel sure you will find several subjects of interest to you."

The title on the reverse side is an all-things-to-all-people "Publications Available for Distribution by Members of Congress to Homemakers and Residents of Cities and Towns."

Immediately we were struck by the unique usefulness of several of the bulletins. Where else can one find the answer to that vital question, "How Much Fertilizer Shall I Use?" (That's L-307.) Where else can one find out "What to Do When Your Home Freezer Stops." Surely no one can give a ready reply when you inquire—as must we all sooner or later—what are the "Culture, Diseases and Pests of the Box Tree." We have often wondered about "The European Earwig—How to Control It Around the Home." An indispensable booklet for newlyweds is "Food for the Young Couple"—and its sequel, "Peanut Butter Recipes." And if through some misapplication of "Soil Conservation at Home—Tips for City and Suburban Dwellers" your house is swept away during an unexpected monsoon, you can rejoice in being able to order "First Aid for Flooded Homes and Farms."

Our only regret is that we can send in for 10 and no more.

Admirer Praises Barbara Blegen's Keyboard Artistry

To the Kaimin:

This Friday evening we will be richly rewarded with the appearance of a brilliant young concert pianist. The art of Miss Barbara Blegen is the kind that must be seen to be believed. This amazing musician is able to create such a magnificent sound from the keyboard that she leaves the listener benumbed with awe. I feel proud not only that she is a Missoulian, but also that she is an American. No amount of praise can adequately repay this girl for the inspiration afforded by her genius.

A reviewer from the Philadelphia Inquirer recently wrote "The Prokofieff (Toccata) was astonishing. How so frail a girl could produce such an outpouring of sound left one weak with wonder." Barbara will play the Prokofieff Toccata at the concert Friday night.

Aesthetic values at MSU have been questioned recently by students. But aesthetic values must be set and sought for by students themselves. MSU does offer opportunities which provide rich cultural stimulation, and the student who complains of a low cultural standard at MSU must not be looking too hard—not when we have a chance to hear outstanding artists like Miss Blegen. If any student thinks cultural activity at MSU has hit an all-time low, he certainly must not be attending the public lectures, or the concerts, or the plays offered every week. And he surely must not be using the music library, which provides music masterpieces recorded by great artists. This library, by the way, is open to all students, and it provides me with a daily music stimulus.

If you doubt the existence of culture at MSU, go to Barbara's recital. Her magic artistry will truly enrich your life. If you don't go to another recital at MSU, you can be forgiven if you see this one.

Agnes Varda's Cleo from 5 to 7 winds up the winter quarter Foreign Film Series at the University Theater Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Contrary to advertising, Cleo, starring Corinne Marchand, Antoine Bourseiller, Michel Legrand and Dominique Davray, is a French film (not Greek) with direction, screenplay, adaptation and dialogue all by French New Wave director, Agnes Varda.

The inherently intriguing plot relates two tense hours in the life of a young entertainer as she waits for results of a cancer biopsy. The viewer stays with Cleo each fearful minute. She takes a bus or taxi, we go along with her to a fortune teller, to a dress shop, to her room where she rehearses a song.

Bernard Pingaud in Sight and Sound magazine quoted these comments made by the film's director, Miss Varda, "Because she (Cleo) is afraid, she looks at things in a different way; and because she looks at things differently, they begin to interest her. She becomes curious. At the outset she was passive, shut up in herself; now she begins to look around her, consciously ferreting out impressions and as a result of what she sees her fear may slacken or tighten its hold."

This example of Cinema-verite provides an all too infrequent instance whereby "the film becomes an active spectacle to which only the spectator holds the key."

David Copperfield, Book Heritage Series—at the Wilma Theater for one day only, Tuesday, March 10.

The original 1935 production, directed by George Cukor (Little Women; Born Yesterday; The Chapman Report), with a cast that makes The Longest Day look like a few fleeting moments, includes: W. C. Fields as Mr. Macawber, Lionel Barrymore as Dan Peggotty, (the appearance of these actors alone indicates this is a film not to be missed) Maureen O'Sullivan as Dora, Madge Evans as Agnes, Frank Lawton as David the man, Freddie Bartholomew as David the child and 59 others.

Dickens' book has been followed faithfully throughout, beginning with David's birth and ending with the revelation of his love for Agnes and capturing the many intervening incidents in his life. With an excellent story, cast and director, this movie recommends itself.

Heavens Above (1963)—through Saturday at the Roxy. Directed by the Boulting Bros., Ray and John; with Peter Sellers, Cecil Parker, Isabel Jeans, Brock Peters.

Satire against the Church of England and its frequently stuffy clergy. Peter Sellers, a prison chaplain, is accidentally elevated by CHAS. BULL to the vicarship of a well-to-do church. Shocks his flock by hiring an amiable West-Indian as warden and taking in a ne'er-do-well slum family. Sight and Sound commented, "Peter Sellers is excellent as a parson who takes Christianity literally." Spotty but much fun.

Sunday in New York ('64) at the Wilma through Monday. Directed by Peter Tewksbury, with Cliff Robertson, Jane Fonda, Rod Taylor.

Norman Krasna has expanded his successful Broadway show for this screen version. Flyer Cliff Robertson has trouble getting together with his girl friend after innocent young sister Jane Fonda comes to stay in his apartment. While he tries to rectify the situation, Jane finds a man, Rod Taylor, who she is with when her boy friend from back home bursts in on them. He thinks Rod is Jane's brother, and . . . well, you get the drift.

Fantasia ('41)—at the Fox. Walt Disney's screen imitations of the Nutcracker Suite, Rite of Spring, Pastoral Symphony, Night on Bald Mountain and two others. Leopold Stokowski and the Philadelphia Orchestra.

Prophet Finishes With .778 Record

By TOM SULLIVAN

In my final week of predicting I hit 19 of 22 for 86 per cent to end the season with 155 right and 44 wrong, 77.8 per cent.

Two of last week's losses were Grizzly games I thought the team would win. The Grizzlies, in fact, gave me trouble all year as 10 of my incorrect predictions were on Tip games.

Others who were tough to predict were Idaho State and Villanova, both of whom crossed me up seven times.

Two final predictions to end the year—Billings West and Missoula will meet in the Class A finals in Butte next week and Wichita and UCLA will play for the championship of the NCAA.

You know the basketball season here has been so bad I bet you couldn't trade 20 Grizzly bubble gum cards for one Bobcat card.

MSU to Meet Weber State In Final Basketball Contest

The MSU Grizzlies play their final basketball game of the season tomorrow night at Ogden, Utah, against conference opponent Weber State.

The Wildcats were the last team MSU managed to beat when they took a 74-62 decision at the Field House Jan. 15. The Grizzlies have lost 12 consecutive games since that time.

Weber State, 15-8 before last night's game against conference champion Montana State, is in second place in the Big Sky with a 5-3 record.

MSU, 1-8, is last and has no chance of escaping the cellar. The Grizzlies are 6-16 in all games played.

The Wildcats have one of the top scoring marks in the nation with a 91.5-point-a-game average in last week's statistics. This was fourth in the nation.

Weber State has topped 100 points 10 times this year.

Jim Lyon, 6-3 guard, is the Wildcats' top scorer with a 20.6

average. Lyon has been on the bench lately, however, and is a doubtful starter.

Probable starters and their scoring averages are Mike Sivulich, 15.2; John Silbernagel, 12.2; Jon O'Dell, 8.2; Jerry Trice, 6.9; and either Dave Erickson, 8.5, or Gene Young, 6.4.

Art Crump Scores 41 Points As Bengals Top Tips 111-88

By NORM AMUNDSON
Special to the Kaimin

POCATELLO, Idaho — It was Art Crump night at Pocatello yesterday.

The 6-4 senior forward scored a record 41 points to lead the Idaho State Bengals to an 111-88 trouncing over the Montana Grizzlies in a Big Sky game.

Crump's total broke the ISU record of 37 points shared by himself and Les Roh. He tied the ISU gymnasium record set by Frank Burgess of Gonzaga in 1961.

Both teams scored their greatest point total in last night's game. The total of 199 is a new gymnasium record.

It was the 12th straight loss for the Grizzlies who are 6-16 for the season and 1-8 in Big Sky play. Idaho State is 10-13 and 4-5 in conference action.

MSU will meet Weber State at Ogden, Utah, tomorrow. The Wildcats defeated league leading Montana State 91-84 last night at Ogden.

Chump needed 14 points to become the second player in ISU history to pass the 1500 mark. He got those in the first 10 minutes of the game. He needs 22 more in the final game of the season against MSC tomorrow night to become the greatest Bengal scorer of all time.

The Bengals led 51-37 at half-time after holding leads of 19 points on two occasions. The Tips hit six of their first eight field goal attempts in the second half to clip the lead to 61-49.

The Grizzly defense seemed to have bottled Crump up, but forward Ken Briggs and guard Mike Zaklan began hitting from the outside to give ISU a 74-56 lead with 12:10 remaining.

The contest was a runaway from that point.

Crump made 17 of 32 field goals and seven of 12 from the foul line.

Guard Tim Aldrich led the Tips with 19 points. He made five of six free throws to boost his season total to 80 of 95 for 84 per cent. Aldrich is ahead of the MSU season free throw mark of 82 per cent set by Ed Argenbright in 1956.

Grizzly Wrestlers to Enter Big Sky Meet in Bozeman

Sigma Nu Tops ATO In Fraternity Playoff

Grizzly wrestlers will be competing in the Big Sky Wrestling Championship tomorrow at Bozeman against Montana State College, Weber State and Idaho.

The team's season's record is 6-6-2.

Coach John Polo said MSU could take second place if the team does not meet MSC in the first round of competition. MSC is undefeated.

Polo said that MSC will probably take first place with the Grizzlies and Idaho State fighting for the second spot.

The men competing and their records are:

- 115 lbs.—Larry Bicha, 2-2; 123—John Black, 10-0-2; 130—Dick Southern, 2-9-0; 137—Bob Palmer, 7-2-2; 147—Harry Comins, 0-5-1; 157—Ken Johnston, 6-5-1; 167—Dick Treat, 4-7-1; 177—Dennis Meyers, 2-4-0; 191—Dean Hermes, 6-3-3, heavyweight—Jim Whipple, 0-1.

Sigma Nu, despite a 23-point handicap, defeated Alpha Tau Omega 59-50 last night in the Men's Gym for the fraternity basketball championship.

The game was fast-moving and rough from the start with ATO using a zone defense and SN a full-court press.

ATO scored only 27 points in the game in addition to the 23-point lead with which they started.

ATO was given the advantage in the contest which matched the top team among the smaller houses and the best of the larger in order to make a more interesting game. The handicap was determined by comparing each team's scores against those of its opponents.

The contest was spiced with fast breaks, colliding players and skinned knees.

The halftime score was ATO 32, SN 24. Sigma Nu tied the game 37-37 in the third quarter and then went on to win.

SN's high scorers were Larry Ashcroft with 20 and Jerry Jacobsen with 16. Ron Earling had five and Bill Cushman and Jon Cantamessa four for ATO.

MSU Swimmers in Ogden For League Championships

The MSU Grizzly swimmers, 2-8, will compete in the Big Sky Conference championships at Ogden this weekend.

Idaho, 63-27 victors over MSU here last week, is favored to win the meet. Other teams entered are Idaho State and host Weber State.

Ed Maguire, Grizzly sophomore, has the best chance to win at Ogden, MSU swimming coach Fred Stetson said. Maguire holds the school record in both the 200- and 500-yard free styles. His times were 1:59.5 and 5:47.1.

Stetson said that freshman Jim Deeds should place in the 200-yard back stroke. Deeds' best time is 2:23.3.

MSU entries and their best times are:

- Tony Hoyt—100-yard free style (56.9); Pete Gardiner—50- (24.8) and 100-yard free styles (55.8); Deeds—200-yard individual medley (2:20.2) and 200-yard back stroke; Pete Saewert—200-yard breast stroke (2:41.0); Maguire—200- and 500-yard free styles, and Lee MacDonald—diving.

Football Practice To Begin April 20

The annual intrasquad football game following Grizzly spring practice will not be played on the eve of Interscholastics this year as has been the tradition.

Grizzly prospects for the 1964 season will begin 20 days of practice April 20 and play the spring game May 9.

Practice is starting earlier this year to avoid a conflict with Big Sky Conference championships in baseball, track, tennis and golf here May 15 and 16.

Interscholastics are the following week.

New head coach Hugh Davidson will have much the same material as last year's squad which dropped nine consecutive games after winning their opener, but the team will be a year older and more experienced.

Five seniors were lost through graduation.

Davidson will have two recently-appointed assistants, Dave Kragthorpe and Clint Whitfield, and holdover Milt Schwenk to aid him with the team.

Ramblers Beat FAF, Win Championship

A 31-point scoring binge by Jerry Loendorf swept the Ramblers to an 85-61 win over Fi Alpha Falfa for the intramural basketball championship yesterday afternoon in the Men's Gym.

Loendorf, scoring three of his team's first five points, riddled the net from close in during both halves. Dee Pohlman, hitting from the corners and the key, added 18 and Paul Miller and Hal Westberg whipped through 16 points each, mostly on drives, for the winners.

Gene Leonard scored 23 points from the corners and the key to top Fi Alpha Falfa scoring.

Ramblers jumped to a 5-0 lead and held a three-point margin through most of the first quarter until a fast break by Dick Huse and a jump shot by Leonard gave FAF a one-point lead, 16-15.

Two points by Pohlman knotted the score at 21-21 at the end of the first quarter.

The lead bounced between the teams 10 times early in the second quarter, with FAF holding a 31-30 margin with about four and a half minutes remaining.

It was the team's last lead as three driving plays and a foul shot by Westberg, a jump shot and two foul shots by Pohlman and a close-in tally by Loendorf gave the Ramblers a 43-31 half time lead.

Scoring was even in the third quarter, with Leonard, Huse and Jim Jacobsen keeping FAF within 15 points most of the period. Loendorf scored eight of the Ramblers' 15 points in the quarter, which ended with Ramblers leading 60-46.

Drives by Miller and Loendorf and foul shots by Loendorf stretched the lead to 72-49 midway in the final period, and Pohlman pumped in three field goals in the last five minutes to ice the game.

Hoffa Might Keep Union Office

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON

Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa's jury tampering conviction apparently won't topple him from office under a federal law barring high union posts to anyone convicted of bribery.

Informed sources said yesterday it is highly unlikely that the Justice Department will press for Hoffa's removal from his union office under the Landrum-Griffin Act. The reason is that the government feels it would be difficult to convince a court that jury tampering is equivalent to bribery.

Hoffa has already announced his intention to appeal, a process that could extend for several years.

• The Old Soldier, General of the Army Douglas MacArthur, is scheduled to undergo an exploratory operation this morning to determine the cause of an obstruction in his biliary tract system.

And the top surgeon in the case, Lt. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, surgeon general of the Army, said cancer could not be ruled out as a possibility in a patient as old as the 84-year-old hero of two world wars.

• The Army reported yesterday "ray guns" using the high-energy Laser beam are useful for several things, but not as weapons.

"The capabilities described in news stories, such as the ability to ignite objects and to detonate explosives, are the same as many Laser devices in laboratory use today," an Army spokesman said.

"These characteristics have been evaluated by the Army and were determined to be totally insufficient for initiation of a development program for a destructive instrument."

• Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara headed for South Viet Nam last night to take a close look at what he described as evidence of stepped-up Northern support for the Communist guerrillas attacking that country.

Before taking off on a fact-finding mission for President Johnson, the defense chief told a news conference Thursday that new and heavier weapons "obviously of Chinese manufacture" have been appearing in the hands of the Red forces.

"There has been evidence that in the last six months North Vietnamese support of the Communist Viet Cong has increased," he said.

HELENA

Jack C. Toole, announced candidate for Democratic nomination for Congress from Montana's eastern district, said he is "aligning himself foursquare for health care for the aged." In a statement he said such a program through social security "would cost the average worker about $12 a year." Toole is a member of the President's Advisory Committee on Aging.

GENEVA

The United States announced yesterday that one of its largest nuclear power reactors at Rowe, Mass., will be placed under permanent international inspection in a move designed to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

CYPRUS

A bomb blew up under the Turkish Cypriot legislative chamber at Nicosia Thursday and new fighting broke out on the north coast. The renewed violence lent urgency to United Nations efforts to form a peace force and speed it to Cyprus.
